Gripping account of racial fear and violence in New York City during the winter of 1741 as ten fires blazed across Manhattan, with panicked whites suspecting a slave uprising. The aftermath: 13 black men burned at the stake, 17 hanged and more than 100 men and women thrown into a dungeon beneath City Hall.

Donations from Robert C. Hayden inspired the collation of books celebrating African American arts, political activities, historical movements, and significant figures. Hayden was a senior Lecturer at U MASS Boston, Northeastern University, Boston College, and Lesley University, spanning from 1978 to 2006 and is President Emeritus of the local branch of the Association for the Study of African American Life and History (ASALH), established in 2002.

The collection does not contain fiction or autobiographical titles nor is it exhaustive of the library’s existing holdings related to this special collection.

The town of Oak Bluffs has a rich history as a time-honored black summer community, supporting African American arts & culture. Continuing to pique the interest of both historians and members of the general public, some materials within this collection describe local historic sites and tours, which juxtapose the contributions of and the injustices suffered by African Americans on the island dating back to the 1700s. The bulk of the collection allows for cultural connections between the island and Black America.
AFRICAN AMERICAN 303.623 FLA
In The Heat Of The Summer: The New York Riots of 1964 and the War on Crime (Flamm, Michael W.)
Spotlights the drama of a single week in July, 1964, as peaceful protests degenerated into violent rioting after a white police officer in New York City shot and killed black teenager, James Powell. The "Harlem Riot of 1964," as most called it, highlighted a new dynamic in American racial politics.
